

Shifting
the Power
Who Gets Funding Matters

March 3 ■ 9:30am – 11:00am EST

Join Us!

Segal Family Foundation and Focus for Health are sister foundations that support social impact organizations by shifting power and resources to impact leaders through grantmaking and community building. In these joint town hall events, we'll unpack topics that affect community leaders across both of our contexts in Sub-Saharan Africa and the United States.

Join us for our first conversation on the importance of funding organizations helmed by leaders from the communities and countries they seek to serve. We'll confront some of the biases and barriers that keep resources from flowing to important work. Tune in for advice for impact leaders on how to communicate this value to funders, and for funders interested in how to continually improve their own accountability.

Global Philanthropy Needs its own Black Lives Matter Reckoning

"Worldwide, more than 99% of humanitarian and philanthropic funding goes to predominantly white-led international NGOs. Despite Africa's growing and dynamic social sector, only 5.2% of U.S. foundation giving to Africa goes to African-led organisations..."
